

Early Career Researcher Proposal Development Workshop - Nottingham 12.30 – 4pm 21 November 2019

Institute of Mental Health, University of Nottingham, Innovation Park, Jubilee Campus, Triumph road, Nottingham, NG7 2TU

The Emerging Minds network would like to invite early career researchers to a workshop hosted by Dr Jen Martin of MindTech at the Institute of Mental Health, University of Nottingham.

Emerging Minds is a mental health research network funded by UK Research & Innovation (UKRI) with the aim of encouraging research across sectors and disciplines. We want to reduce the prevalence of mental health problems amongst children and young people through mental health promotion, prevention and early treatment.

The Emerging Minds network has a fund of £500,000 to share to enable research collaborations. We have prioritised 4 research challenges from the questions that young people, families, practitioners and policy makers have told us are most important and pressing.

The purpose of this workshop is to support Early Career Researchers to develop their research ideas into fundable, collaborative project proposals. The objectives of the event are:

- To better enable Early Career Researchers to build the partnerships and collaborations needed to bring their research ideas to fruition.
- To support Early Career Researchers to develop their proposal development skills.
- To explore the wider opportunities offered by the Emerging Minds network including mentoring and short term fellowships.

The meeting is limited to 30 spaces. Refreshments and lunch are included in your free place. Please contact Emily Lloyd at info@emergingminds.org.uk if you have any questions.

We will also be hosting a general Emerging Minds 'kick off' meeting at the Institute of Mental Health on the morning of Thursday 21 November. You are strongly encouraged to also attend this. You can find more details and register here.
